

LET'S TALK ABOUT RACE

A series of events designed to provide opportunities to learn through different media, reflect on our own and with others, and have honest conversations about race and racism.

COMING UP NEXT:

JANUARY 14
7:00-8:30 p.m.

MOVIE DISCUSSION

“When They See Us” is a four-part mini-series on Netflix, based on the true story of 5 young black men falsely accused of a brutal attack on a female jogger in Central Park. Produced by Oprah and nominated for 16 Emmy awards, this series has received much critical acclaim since it was released in 2019.

In this session, Parts 1 and 2 will be discussed, so please watch those prior to the discussion if possible.

Please register to attend: <https://www.ncota.org/dei>

Parts 3 and 4 will be discussed on a date TBA.

FEBRUARY 25
7:00-8:30 p.m.

“COURAGEOUS CONVERSATIONS”

Based on work by Glenn E. Singleton, COURAGEOUS CONVERSATION™ “serves as the essential strategy for systems and organizations to address racial disparities through safe, authentic, and effective cross-racial dialogue.”

This session will include review of the 4 agreements and 6 conditions relevant to having courageous conversations about race.
